Stillwater Cove

A beautiful , peaceful cove just off the beach at people beach on Carmel Bay. The cove is small and surrounded by kelp. Most anchor in the small entrance channel just off the moorings. There are a few sand spots around the moorings just off the beach along the golf course. Even with all the kelp, when the West or south wind blow you should not stay. Enjoy!

Club History

The clubhouse was built in 1968. With the cooperation of building contractor Shepherd and architect Warren Wong, a member who designed the clubhouse, the cost was kept down to Sixty-two thousand dollars. It was considered very reasonable for the design that received a merit award from the American Institute of Architects.

The clubhouse "board room" addition came in 1983 and the deck expansion in 1988. The 3-ton crane and boatyard, known as the Purrfect Point Project, was completed in 1989. The "Purrfect Point" designation was adopted because the light standard on the point is the remains of a Non Such 30 mast that broke off at the deck. The cat-boat was named "Purrfect".

There was rapid expansion in 1995. Additional land was acquired through the lease with the City. The barbecue and deck facility was built, and a new rest room and shower addition was constructed. The treasurer reported major expenditures of $411,722.

The design and building supervision of the barbecue and deck was done by member John Shepherd. He died a year later and the facility was named the Retreat in his memory. "Retreat" was the name of his sailboat.

The remodeling and expansion of the kitchen was completed in 1999. The design was accomplished with the help of several members experienced in this field. Part of the equipment was donated by member Ni Orsi. Member Richard Carr, whose company did the electric work, donated many "special extras". Member Greg Gaut, who is a mechanical contractor, did the plans and engineering at no charge to the club.
